VOL. 9, NO. 38 CAMPBELL, SANTA CLARA CO., CALIFORNIA, FEBRUARY 27, 1904 $1.00 A YEAR

GREAT CELEBRATION

The Mercury sent to Campbell Mr. Webster who reported the celebration for that paper, and he did it in a very acceptable way. In part that paper said:

"The morning dawned full darkly" yesterday, but that had no effect upon the people of Campbell and vicinity in their celebration of Old Settlers' Day.

That is a function which now has the endorsement of ten years' observance. It is celebrated with a spirit which seems to increase from year to year, judging by the outpouring of the people. Where they all come from was a question which naturally presented itself, but met with rather an indefinite answer. "Were they all from Campbell?"

"No; there were a good many outsiders from the surrounding country and some from more distant places, including a delegation from San Jose."

The sky was heavily overcast as the train pulled out of the narrow-guage depot, but the dense masses of vapor which rolled low down on the mountains around Almaden were brightened into dazzling whiteness by the sunlight pouring through a distant rift in the clouds, and held out the promise of comparatively fair weather, which was not broken until late in the afternoon.

The people accepted the promise in good faith and came flocking into Campbell from all points of the compass. By the time the meeting was called to order in one of the great compartments of the Ainsley packing house, fully 500 persons occupied the temporary seats arranged for their accommodation, of whom at least half were ladies. The stage was handsomely draped with national flags and the red, white and blue was conspicuous in streamers, pendants and festoons from walls and ceiling. The "old settlers" took up their position on the platform and the meeting was called to order by ex-State Senator E. B. Conklin, who opened the program with a thoughtful and eloquent address.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

As the occasion celebrated the birthday of Washington as well as Old Settlers' day the President, after welcoming the assemblage, naturally dwelt at some length upon the tendencies of the times as compared with olden conditions.

In those tendencies he saw much to deplore—the worship of mere material success, the greed of money getting, the tyranny of consolidated wealth, the departure from high ideals of thought and conduct, the lack of a proper sense of moral responsibility in the affairs of life.

And the remedy? "My remedy," he continued, "is the education of the moral sense, the cultivation of righteousness, love for mankind, the development of the Christian virtues. That is the real and the only adequate remedy." In a strong and fervent peroration he inculcated the necessity of awakening in the minds of the people the recognition of these truths, the practice of these principals for the regeneration of the national character.

In concluding Mr. Conklin introduced as the next speaker Mrs. May Tongier, State secretary of the W. C. T. U.

MRS. TONGIER'S REMARKS.

Mrs. Tongier promised that she proposed to talk to the audience a little about home, in recognition of a home festival. For her own part, in one sense of the word, she had no home. She was here, there and everywhere. But in another sense she found her home everywhere. She illustrated this fact by a little story of one of her many experiences.

Mrs. Tongier received an ovation for her well timed talk, after which Prof. T. W. Page, of the history department of the University of California, was introduced to deliver the main address of the day.

IRRIGATING A CAMPBELL ORCHARD

THE ORATOR OF THE DAY.

Prof. Page's subject was "The Almighty Dollar," and he opened with a comparison of conditions now and in Washiugton's time. His manner was easy, conversational, sometimes witty and occasionally almost eloquent, though with a careful avoidance of anything verging upon oratorical effect. He drew an interesting parallel between the ways of living and doing business now and then; the lack then of what we consider now the ordinary facilities of life; the backward state a century ago of the arts and sciences. "Washington himself," he declared, was butchered by his doctors. He had what we would call to-day a case of the grip, and they bled him to death. That was their way of treating disease."

PULPIT, PRESS AND COLLEGE.

Coming down more nearly to the gist of his subject the speaker dwelt upon current ideas respecting the influence of the "Almighty Dollar" on modern life. He alluded to three things which commercialism is popularly supposed to effect injuriously. The pulpit, in which the pastor is believed to be checked in his rebuke of wrong doing by consideration for the feelings of wealthy parishioners; the press, prostituted to sensationalism and 'yellowness' by the money making chase of the business; the university, in which true culture is subordinated to the acquisition of that knowledge which will best advance the business success of the student; where the donations of wealthy benefactors make it look like ingratitude to cast any question upon the manner in which their money was made in the mental development of students.

WEALTH AND CULTURE.

"But is this as bad as it is made out to be by popular opinion?" queried the speaker. "It is true that of late years the best talent of the country has been devoted to developing its material resources; in other words, to money-making; but it is also true that in all ages the greatest developments of art, literature and science have gone hand in hand with the greatest industrial and commercial activity."

It is not the pursuit of the "almighty dollar" that works harm but the use that is made of it when obtained. The speaker quoted Professor Bryce, author of "The American Commonwealth," to the effect that life is more agreeable in Europe than in the United States because wealth is more devoted to the advancement of art, science and literature, while here it is mainly used merely as the means of piling up more wealth. Our millionaires continue amassing riches, not through greed, but for the love of doing it and for power.

THE REMEDY—WOMAN AND HOME.

"And what," asked Professor Page, "is the corrective of this tendency? The greatest to my mind is the American woman, who must make the American home. We live too much in clubs, in boarding houses, in flats, in apartment houses and the virtues and graces of the true home cannot flourish there. It is for the woman of America to make the homes of the country and the centers from which shall emanate all the influences which make for culture, right living and the highest use of wealth."

CAMPBELL HOSPITALITY.

At the conclusion of Professor Page's address, which was most favorably received, an adjournment was taken to another of the great compartments of the establishment, where a bountiful lunch was spread, to which all comers were made heartily welcome. The hospitality of Campbell is proverbial and it was never more fully vindicated than on this occasion. It was not an organized dinner, but a sort of indoor basket picnic, to which the ladies of the community contributed in their individual capacity. There was every thing that the heart or the stomach could wish and somehow those in charge of the affair managed to so adapt and combine the plentiful and varied store at their command that the tables presented the appearance and the fact of a thoroughly organized banquet under control of a professional chef. The whole great audience that had listened to the literary exercises sat down and devoted an hour to the discussion of the good things set before them and cordial goodfellowship.

ANDREW P. HILL ON BIG BASIN.

At 1:30 p. m. the audience reassembled to listen to an address by Andrew P. Hill on the subject of the "Big Basin." This was a matter upon which Mr. Hill spoke con amore. He began with a graphic description of the basin; its physical features; its streams, waterfalls and, above all, of its wonderful forest, that survival of a past geological age, which has its counterpart nowhere else in the world. He descanted upon the wonderful variety of the forest, in which also it is unparalleled; he quoted the admiring tributes of naturalists and travelers from all parts of the world upon its attractions as a pleasure resort and its advantages as a sanitarium on account of its singularly equable climate and pure waters. "What would Los Angelos do with this wonder of nature," said he, "if it were in that vicinity? Its attractions woud be heralded to the four quarters of the earth and thousands of tourists would come, drawn by its reputation.

"This wonderland," continued the speaker, "lies twenty miles northeast of of Santa Cruz, five miles from the sea, twenty-two miles from San Jose, twelve miles from Saratoga, fifteen miles from Stanford University and about forty-one miles from San Francisco. Thus it may be seen at a glance to be near the center of the greater population of California."

Mr. Hill next mentioned the ease with which a road could be built from San Jose to the basin, and strongly urged upon his audience that not only a road, but an electric railroad should be built to connect it with this city and make San Jose the recognized point of departure for tourists. He was fervent, eloquent and convincing, and carried the audience with him in his enthusiasm.

The concert in the afternoon, given by the Stanford Varsity Orchestra and Girls' Glee Club, was one of rare merit. Words of praise were unstinted after listening for two hours to the choice music furnished by those thirty-five young people from the University. The music committee deserves credit for carrying to success so important a feature of the celebration.

The celebration proved to be one of the best in the history of the town. Fully 700 people were present to enjoy the day. The thanks of the committees and people generally are due to Mr. Ainsley for the generous use of his cannery. Nothing happened to mar the pleasures of the day, which were enjoyed to the fullest extent.

CAMPBELL

(THE ORCHARD CITY)

Lies 50 miles south of San Francisco on the Santa Cruz division of the Southern Pacific Railway, 5 miles from San Jose, in the famous Santa Clara Valley, the garden spot of the State.

SCENERY SUPERB

With the Santa Cruz Mountains to the west and south and the Coast Range on the east, a majestic amphitheatre is formed, the beauty of which can not be excelled anywhere. Campbell has an altitude of 195 feet. The cool breezes from San Francisco bay at the north insure an even and comfortable temperature throughout the summer months, while the winters are warm and pleasant. Flowers bloom out of doors the year around.

EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGES

Campbell has a population of about 600. It maintains a (third class) post-office which distributes mail to 3,000 patrons, covering over 30 square miles of orchard homes. There are two churches —Methodist and Congregational—a first class High School and Graded School, and within a few miles are two Universities, two Colleges, a State Normal School and several Business Colleges and private schools.

The Stanford University with its marvelous architecture is only 20 miles away.

NO SALOONS

Campbell has a complete water system of its own. It has electric lights and power for mechanical purposes, which is distributed throughout the orchard district. A telephone exchange serves over 40,000 people. A prohibitory clause in all deeds to property within the town limits, prevents the saloon from being established.

FINE ROADS AND RESORTS

The Santa Clara Valley boasts of the finest roads to be found in the State. It has over 350 miles of sprinkled rural highways. In attractions for tourists the Santa Clara Valley can not be surpassed. Thirty-two miles eastward over a magnificent mountain road is the famous Lick Observatory on Mt. Hamilton, 4,444 feet above sea level. There are numerous mountain retreats within two hours' drive for those who love the camp and sparkling brook. The sea beach to the southward 27 miles by rail or carriage drive, and through the most beautiful mountain scenery in the world.

A trip to the Big Trees, twenty feet in diameter and two thousand years old, will furnish a delightful day's outing.

MINERAL SPRINGS

The hot springs of Alum Rock Canyon and Congress Mineral Springs are within two hours' drive, giving a panoramic view of the entire valley.

The Almaden Quicksilver Mines, the largest in the world are within easy access by rail or team.

The largest seed farms in the world only 10 miles distant.

FRUIT CENTER

Campbell's mammoth fruit dryer and packing house is the largest in the world. It has a capacity of over 10,000,000 lbs.

The Campbell Orchard District is noted for the quality of its fruits. For delicacy of flavor and beauty and perfection of color, its cherries, apricots, peaches, apples, plums, grapes and pears, have no equal in their fresh state, and command the highest market price. As cured or dried fruit the Campbell prune, apricot, and peach is shipped to every civilized country on the globe. Nearly one-half of all the prunes grown on the continent are from Campbell orchards. One and a half million cans of fresh fruits are packed in Campbell every season.

The demand for intelligent labor is increasing every year. Families desiring profitable employment in orchards, packing houses and canneries find this an ideal home.

LAND VALUES MODERATE

Land values are very moderate—bare land brings from $100 to $300 per acre and when set to trees sells from $200 to $1,000 per acre, according to location and age of orchard. Ten to fifteen per cent is an average net income, while many places yield a much higher rate.

In short a Campbell home is one surrounded with HEALTH, WEALTH AND PLEASURE.

Gentle showers throughout the week have been just what the orchardists have been wanting. The creek began running again Wednesday afternoon and all irrigating ditches have been carrying the rich sediment water over the many orchards. It wouldn't surprise us to hear some one very soon complain for fear too much rain will fall. We will get plenty of water without doubt.

CAMPBELL should set an example in planting shade trees. No more important a thing could be undertaken here than the systematic planting of good shade and ornamental trees. Sidewalks should be lined with trees. In addition to this front yards, back yards and available spots should be planted to oranges, lemons, palms, shrubs, etc. Why not make Campbell a town to be proud of? We are glad to say that a number of our citizens are already doing this. At the banquet given by the Los Gatos Board of Trade Monday night we were impressed with the address of Dr. Law of San Francisco, on beautifying a city. He has spent $34,000 on his foot-hill home near Los Gatos and spoke from a wide experience gained in travel in this and foreign lands. He told the people present that in order to attract people of wealth it is necessary to make a town pleasing to the eye, as well as to have good roads. He urged the keeping of back yards as clean as the front yards, especially should this be so adjoining the railroad where trains come through town. The impression made upon strangers is most favorable by well kept and pretty towns. This leads us to remark that the yards along the railroad and near the depot at Campbell should be put in order. The Southern Pacific Co. has given us a good depot and keeps the grounds in good shape, while surrounding it are yards with ugly outbuildings and so bare of attraction as to be very unfavorably commented on by persons at the depot. The depot surroundings should be models of neatness, such as is the case at many of the depots elsewhere. Why not make this the premium depot on the line?

EVERY new building erected in Campbell should be built with a view to beauty as well as convenience. The mission style buildings being erected in our sister towns are a pleasing contrast to the plain and out-of-date styles. Los Gatos will be a city of pretty business houses if it continues to replace the burned district with the kind that are now being built. Nothing adds so much to the beauty of a place, aside from well-kept streets, with shade trees, as the building of modern buildings with the architecture in vogue at this time.

WHILE in Santa Clara the delegates to the Coast Counties Convention, visited the public library just established by the municipality. The library occupies splendid quarters on the second floor of a new brick building. Everything about the library presented a pleasing appearance. It starts on a modest scale, with ample room for expansion. Santa Clara is to be congratulated on this important move.

THE Board of Trade will meet tonight (Saturday) for the purpose of arranging for the observance of Arbor Day next Thursday. Everyone is cordially invited to be present and assist the Board in this matter. Let Campbell be to the front in tree planting. The schools will no doubt assist in the tree planting next Thursday. Come to the Board meeting with suggestions.

Several items of especial interest to all will be brought up.

There will be a Leap Year Social — a "Nine Cent Social," Monday Feb. 29, at Dr. Cooper's. Bring your thinking cap and plenty of smiles, you'll need them all. At Dr. Cooper's Monday, February 29, 1904.

Grange Open Meeting.

At the joint grange meeting held Tuesday night at Campbell with Master of the Grange C. Harvey presiding, the question of the preservation of the water supply in this valley and of the work performed by the Home Protective Association was discussed. Professor Rattan spoke on the geological formation of the valley and gave many instructive details. Then followed some music by two ladies, who rendered excellent selections on the mandolin and piano.

Engineer Herrman dwelt on the necessity for preserving to this valley all the water that was here and vigorously assail the attempt of a corporation to grab it all. Secretary Wretman spoke on the necessity of every citizen in the county lending his support to this movement. He urged them all to join in aiding the Home Protective Association. The meeting was held in the Odd Fellows' Hall. There were about forty people present. The number would have been considerable larger were it not for the fact that another meeting was being held at the same time addressed by Mrs. Tongier.

Dragging Pains

2825 Keeley St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.

I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Maude Bush

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.
